Just a gigolo, everywhere I go, the people know the part that I'm playing.

I'm paid for every dance, I sell each romance, every night some heart I'm betraying (yes sir). But there'll come a day, my youth will pass away, then what'll they say about me? Ah when the end comes I know, they'll say just a gigolo, life goes on without me.

Handsome gigolo, dressed up for the show, oh what a life your leading. You dance till every dawn, your youth your future gone (gone I tell ya). Love will pass you by unheeding. Your just a soul on hire, to the highest buyer, no thought, no thought for tomorrow. Friends may come but they'll go, leaving handsome gigolo, a heart that breaks with sorrow.
